BIGGEST SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN IN HISTORY OF WEST KENTUCKY

Over 1,600.00 In Prizes to Be Given Away Free to Ladies of Crittenden County

In this issue of the Press the announcement is made of the mammoth popularity and subscription campaign to be inaugurated on the Press and of the hundreds of dollars in valuable prizes to be given away free to the ladies of this section just for a little work on their part in securing new and renewal subscriptions to the Press. Never before have such valuable prizes been given away in this section of the state, and as the campaign is open to any lady, married or single, it is assured that many popular young ladies will enter the campaign.

The prizes to be awarded will consist of a Dodge touring car, and other valuable prizes such as Edison talking machines, cedar chests, gold watches, etc., all to be given away in just one month's time. Ladies of this vicinity, who would be proud possessors of one of these valuable prizes should see to it that her name be sent in to the Press office at once, so that no time will be lost in getting started.

HOW TO ENTER

Any lady, married or single, of good character, may participate in this mammoth drive, all that is necessary being to fill out the nomination coupon on this page and bring or send it to the campaign manager at the Press office. Bear in mind that the nomination sent in does not obligate any one to enter, but immediately after the nomination is sent in the campaign manager will call and explain all details of the offer thoroughly. If any one desires to enter and would like to understand all rules before doing so, call the manager at phone 27 and the campaign will be cheerfully explained. More Votes Allowed First Period.

Ladies desirous of entering the campaign should bear in mind that each and every subscription turned

SPENT PLEASANT SUNDAY IN THE COUNTRY

Last Sunday Mrs. W. P. Hogard, Harold Hogard and W. P. Hogard spent a very pleasant day at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Phillips.

The trip was negotiated in the brand new Dodge touring car that the Press is going to give away in the contest and listen, girls, it's the swellest runing car you ever saw. There is sure going to be a proud lady somewhere around here in about a month when the winner of the car is announced.

It used to be a big undertaking to get out in the Tribune section from Marion, but since E. Jeffery Travis got busy a few weeks ago and fixed up the famous "hollow" and the bad place in front of S. B. Hunt's, it isn't bad at all. It is a little rough yet but is nearly as good as the average road in this country. Everybody congratulate our County Road Engineer now.

Getting back to our original story; we had a nice time and a fine dinner at Howard's. Somebody is a good provider there and Mrs. Howard is a mighty good cook. That is a combination hard to beat. Howard's crops are looking fine, the same as everywhere else this year. He has some tobacco that will cure from 75 to 80 percent "leaf". It is sure fine. His corn fields are prosperous looking and should fatten many hogs—or whatever it is fed to.

KENTUCKY FIFTEENTH COSTLY STATE.

Washington, D. C.—Only fourteen States paid more for the maintenance of general state departments and departmental service during 1919 than did Kentucky. In the burden this maintenance put on every person in the various states, Kentucky remained thirty-first.

In comparison with total payments and the cost to every person, it is recalled that in the 1919 census Kentucky ranked sixteenth in population.

The cost of maintenance of the department in Kentucky was $11,175,583, the cost per capita being $4.63. Total payments under this heading was for the following purposes:

General governmental costs which includes the various executive and judicial branches; protection to person and property, which includes militia armories; general regulation and other similar expenses; development and conservation of natural resources which includes agriculture and other developments; the conservation of health and sanitation, which includes the prevention and treatment of all communicable diseases and other similar expenses, the cost of highways, charities, hospitals, corrections, schools, libraries, recreations, and general expenses.

In Kentucky, as in most of the other states, the greater part of the governmental cost was made up of the general expenses of the departments, the highway cost, the cost of charities and corrections and the cost of schools. In Kentucky these four items caused a total expense of $9,518,920, or approximately all but $2,000,000 of the total cost.

The costs of the departments was $1,900,833; highway $1,838,205; charities and corrections, $2,136,995, and other schools $4,659,637.

It is supposed that he fell from a freight train during the night and was killed. His body was discovered by the crew on the north bound passenger train Friday morning after the train had run over him and cut off his legs.

He was buried here Friday afternoon.

MARRIED IN PRINCETON

Mr. George Roberts and Miss Aileen Nunn were united in marriage at the home of Rev. Barnes August 18, 1920.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Nunn of near Repton, and is a lady noted for her beauty and winsome ways. The groom is the son of Tom Roberts, a splendid young man and a hustling farmer of Repton vicinity.

DOGS KILL 78 SHEEP

MAYSVILLE, Ky.—Four dogs got into the large flock of sheep of farmer Thomas Malone in this county and killed seventy-eight valuable lambs before they could be driven off. Mr. Malone succeeded in killing only one of the dogs. Not in many years have dogs done so much damage among sheep in this county as they have this year. Since April 1, $6,700 in sheep claims have been filed in this county.

For further information write to or come to see 94 J. C. OWEN, Dycusburg, Ky.

Rev. J. A. Wheeler of Crofton passed through Marion Saturday. He had been assisting Bro. Richardson in a great meeting at Shady Grove. There were 44 professions and a number of additions to the Methodist church.

To see the Deacon get drunk on the Major's "Legal Documents" will bring back the thought of many happy by-gone days.

Mr. L. H. James, of Louisville, was town on business, Saturday.

ENGINEER DECIDES ON SULLIVAN ROUTE

LESS COSTLY LINK ON RIVER HIGHWAY APPROVED BY ENGINEER

FRANKFORT, Ky.—State Highway Engineer Joe S. Boggs notified County Judges, Fiscal Courts and County Commissioners of Crittenden and Union Counties that after considering the two proposed routes of the Ohio River Road between Sturgis and Marion, one crossing the Tradewater River at the mouth of Cypress Creek, and the other by way of Sullivan and Perry's Ferry, he had adopted the Sullivan route.

Engineer Boggs said that Crittenden county has not guaranteed legally to the Road department its part of the cost of this road while the $185,000 appropriated by Union county is available.

Both of the proposed lines between Sturgis and Marion have been carefully surveyed by L. L. Pearsall chief locating engineer. An estimate of cost shows that the Sullivan route will cost $265,163, and the Cypress Creek, $312,646. Engineer Boggs was advised by Mr. Pearsall that the Sullivan route passes through a country in both counties better adapted to agriculture and in addition has a better bridge at Perry's Ferry than at the mouth of Cypress Creek.

Mr. Pearsall also advised that far more people are served on the Sullivan route.

Agricultural Column

By G. M. GUMBERT

The Farm Bureau will meet Saturday at 1:30 at the Court House to make up an order for fall seeds and plan for a membership drive. A good turned in, but it was decided to give additional members an opportunity to order on Saturday. Our last meeting was the most encouraging yet and just as soon as our membership campaign opens we expect even the most sceptical to join.

My agricultural boys have about completed plans for an inspection tour through the Blue Grass and return via the State Fair. Some of the best and largest purebred stock farms in the state will be visited, making this a valuable trip for twelve of our future farmers.

You boys in the county who should be enrolled in High School in the Agriculture course are missing a number of important things. You are passing up an opportunity to get an education that is offered in only 35 counties in the state. When a boy has finished our agriculture course and makes a practical application of what he has learned he will farm as efficiently as an Agricultural graduate.

There is a number of boys in the county who from year to year take a few months work in the eighth grade of their rural schools and then drop out. Some of these have passed the county examination while others have never taken it. These boys should be entitled to free tuition.

The only requirement for entrance to the Agricultural course is that the pupil be more than 14 years old. One half of his time will be devoted to agriculture, the other half to regular High School subjects. Pupils who have not finished eighth grade work may pursue this course and arrange to take agriculture in High School. This is an opportunity seldom offered and the ambitious boy on the farm will take advantage of it. Our school opens on September 13, and you boys should be present to enroll.

A limestone pulveriser is at work on Mr. O. G. Threlkeld's farm at Repton. Any farmer or group of farmers can make arrangements to use this crusher and should not pass up the opportunity. If you are interested call me for particulars.

Mr. Owen Threlkeld and family visited Mr. O. G. Threlkeld at Marion one day last week.

The pound supper given at Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fosters Friday night was enjoyed by all present.

Messrs. Raymond Small, Will Smith, Alley VanHooser, Denton Perry and Lex Harmon came in from Evansville Saturday to visit their parents.

Mrs. H. Sullivan of Marion is the guest of her son, Mr. Lacy Truitt this week.

Mr. Owen Threlkeld and family visited Mr. O. G. Threlkeld at Marion one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Summers and children of Clay are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Summers.

Mrs. Naomi Brown of Akron, Ohio is spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Holmes.

Miss Carrie Lee Whittley of Morganfield spent the week end with Miss Aulta Johnson.

LETTER FROM COLORADO

We thought perhaps our Kentucky friends would enjoy a day of sightseeing with the LaRue family in the mountains of Colorado.

Sunday school being over, on August 15, with our lunch and kodak, we proceed up the Boulder Canyon. Here the canyon is perhaps a hundred yards wide, on either side the mountains rise abruptly, too steep for a goat to climb. Boulder creek, forty to fifty feet wide comes leaping, foaming and winding over rocks with an unceasing roar. A splendid graded highway winds its way among the overhanging crags, in many places blasted through the mountain sides. A blighted vegetation clings to the mountain sides. As we proceed up the canyon however, a more luxuriant growth appears with some valuable timber. Many tourists are camping, spending their vacation fishing and hunting. Now and then the mountains make room for a little summer house and garden. Mining camps abound. Our good Henry Ford is now hot from the climb and we are hungry from the travel, so we find a shady nook on the bank of the noisy creek. We are not lonesome, hundreds are passing, resting and eating, and some are trout fishing. You wonder at fishing in such a swift, noisy stream, there are no "still waters". The fishing is good but I think the catching is scarce. "Henry" has cooled and we are refreshed. We have come to where the Four-mile canyon empties into Boulder, here is found room for a few houses and a bridge. Our road takes the other side of the creek here. Climbing, climbing all the time, but so gradual and winding we are not conscious of it, but for the pulling and puffing of the car. Honk! Honk! Lest you run into some one on the many short curves. Rob called out "Castle Rock." Looking just ahead we see the most stately mansion we have ever seen. No lawn in front, but rising hundreds of feet in majestic grandeur and beauty, its many spires and rugged outline suggesting the castles of ancient times.

But listen! The roar of a catastrophe. The Boulder Falls, a miniature Niagara, perhaps a hundred yards from the highway. We leave the car and follow a narrow path, towering peaks above us, yawning chasms below us, we stand in the presence of the "Voice of the Ages". The voice of one crying in the mountains "Remember thy Creator." Without variation, rest or stop, it is in the same voice that spoke in the Garden to Adam, to Noah in the flood and to Moses on Mount Sinai, and to his Son on the Mount of Transfiguration. "Hear ye him."

Turning away from this mighty handiwork of God, we come soon to a more beautiful picture. Now the canyon widens out a little and rich pastures and alfalfa appear with fine cattle feeding so far below us as to look like young calves. The mountain sides are not steep and barren. They are a beautiful green with fine grazing and valuable timber. See the million dollar dam, built of concrete, 178 feet wide at the base, fifteen at the top and about a half mile long. A gate is lifted and we have another cataract, surmounting in some respects to the one we saw several miles below, "not made by hands."

On the dam we look out upon the most beautiful lake we have ever seen. It covers more than two hundred acres. The wind and sun playing on its bosom develop millions of sparkling diamonds of rarest beauty reflected from the surrounding mountains.

Len wants to go fishing now. But lift up your eyes, we thought he had climbed the topmost peak. Sure enough in a few minutes we are in a rain and hail storm. Rob makes his mother wear his coat, Joy and Ruth will not own that they are freezing in their low neck and short sleeves. One who lives here tells us this is an almost every day occurrence.

It is getting cold here, we have on our summer clothes. Rob is wishing for a snow storm. Listen, it is thunder echoing from peak to peak. Sure enough in a few minutes we are in a rain and hail storm. Rob makes his mother wear his coat, Joy and Ruth will not own that they are freezing in their low neck and short sleeves. One who lives here tells us this is an almost every day occurrence.

The little town of Nederland, a boom town of mining days sleeps on the western shore of the lake, marking the head of the canyon, eighteen miles from Boulder, the mouth.

The storm hurries us back down below the snow line. Our descent more rapid, yet none the less interesting. Looking from a different angle, we see so much we had missed as we went up. Then we were looking up. Now we are looking down. We see the tops of mountains, range beyond range, their peaks piercing the clouds, row after row, until far away they blend into the rolling table lands. Down, down, we soon loose the wide vision, the mountain-experience, to find the mountains around about us a shelter in the time of storms.

We are in the timber belt, the Aspen is glittering in the summer breeze. The tall cone shaped pine is abundant. We must see the "Perfect Tree" a marker is pointing out. We cross the stream and walk around it admiringly. Some two feet in diameter at the base, the foliage perhaps forty, it rises perhaps one hundred and fifty feet, a perfect cone.

A great variety of the loveliest flowers abound. One traveler claims that he found one hundred and eighty different kinds, and you will not doubt it when you have made the tour.

Thanking you for your visit with us and our best wishes to The Press and all its readers we are the Thinking is a wise and safe habit.

It often prevents too much talking.

The fellow who thinks before speaking speaks less often but to greater effect.

We rise to remark that there is but little this week worth remarking about.

Take a week off—catalogue your many virtues and good qualities—resolve that in the future you will double them—and then live up to your resolution. You will have no regrets—and neither will the town.

Wise people are always willing to profit from the wisdom of others.
That's the reason that you read this column.

With Cox and Harding both handsome men, the male persuasion is at its wits end to figure out how the women will vote.

You may not agree with all our editorial opinions, but you will turn right to this page again next week to see what we have to say. We thank you.

There is a man in this community who is the personification of wisdom, prudence and sagacity. Perhaps it is you.

Don't expect others to believe everything you say. If they did there would be no fun left in arguing.

Just keep right on voicing your own opinions. Some day you may believe them yourself.

Horse sense is a valuable asset to any community, provided its possession is not limited to horses.

School days are with us again, and some of us will be looking back over the days of childhood and recounting the precious hours that were frittered away.

Young people are seldom able to penetrate the veil of the future and realize the imperative need of education.

But the need is there and is becoming more insistent as time goes on and civilization progresses.

In the olden days the educated classes were but few in number. Today they are almost universal. Tomorrow—who knows what the requirements will be?

There is a training school for every profession, for almost every trade, and the tiller of the soil has his colleges and universities for the dissemination of knowledge necessary to a wider and more diversified field of agricultural activity.

With our children back in the classrooms again, it would be well for us of mature years to enlarge our interest in their welfare.

We should extend to the teachers a full measure of encouragement and support, and thereby add to the zest of their labors.

Our duty does not end with starting the child to school in the morning.
That is only the beginning.

An active and daily interest in its progress will lend encouragement to its efforts and spur it on to greater success.

Parental commendation is sweet to every child.

Indifference is the father of neglect.

WHY NOT?

It would be difficult to find a community where there are no fault finding, or back biting, or criticism, or covert sneers, for human nature is peculiar, and indulging in such questionable pastimes is one of its peculiarities.

But suppose human nature in this town should reverse itself for once —for an entire month.

Instead of saying or thinking unkind things of others, suppose each of us considered only the good in our friends and acquaintances and neighbors.

Suppose we were generous in our praises and lavish in our commen-tations, and each had something good to say about each other person.

What a revolution we would see!

We would behold the unheard of spectacle of every man and woman gradually outliving and forgetting the petty weaknesses of life.

We would each be filled with pride at the good things said of us, with no unkind word to mar our pleasure.

We would be striving to live up to and deserve the plaudits of others.

In time we would become in fact what others saw of us in fancy.

Close to the millennium, yes, but—

Why not?

FARM BUREAU IN MOUNTAINS

The first farmer's headquarters ever established in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky has been opened by the Farm Bureau of Lawrence County at Louisa. The opening of the headquarters was celebrated with a basket dinner attended by a very large crowd. And the bureau went "over the top" by passing the 100 mark in membership. Besides the business office Lawrence county provided a large rest room for the county women, with plenty of chairs, a big couch, wash basin, toilet, a large looking glass and in fact, full accessories.

G. C. Baker is county agent in Lawrence county and deserves great credit for what he has done in that vicinity.

"Four hundred members by October the first" was the ambitious slogan of LaRue county, announced when a County Farm Bureau was organized at Hodgenville, on July 26. There were 60 charter members on that date. Many farmers have signed up since then and County Agent J. W. Jones states that they will have no difficulty in getting the four hundred as LaRue County farmers always get what they start after.

Farm Bureau members and friends of the organization are asked to remember Friday September 17, which will be Farm Bureau Day at the Kentucky State Fair. Friday as every one knows who attends the State Fair is always a "Big Day."

The management of the State Fair has shown its recognition of the worth of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation by setting aside one of the best days of Fair Week as Farm Bureau Day. Many county bureaus of adjoining states have announced that they will send delegations to the Kentucky State Fair on Farm Bureau Day.

*****

Members of the Kentucky Federation will be interested in action of the American Farm Bureau Federation which at a recent meeting of the executive committee took steps to see that nothing is done by the national law makers to shift a greater burden from industrial interests to the farmers of the nation.

The decision on taxation followed a review of agitation which has been inspired by some industrial interests, for repeal of the present excess profits tax which takes from net earnings of corporations and other businesses forty per cent of all profits in excess of twenty percent net profit on investment. This tax last year raised for the government alone almost two billions of dollars. Several substitutes have been proposed but all would operate to shift this tax burden in a more or less degree to the ultimate consumer.

The American Farm Bureau Federation's idea is that the big tax burden of the country should be borne largely by the interest most able to pay and should not be paid out of the living wage which is all that the average individual consumer has.

It is also contended that the excess profit tax has not crippled business to any discernible extent and that it seems a conservative tax. Great Britain levies a similar tax of 60 percent.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE

Josie Worley, Plaintiff against Virginia Worley etc., Defendant, equity.

By virtue of a Judgment and Order of Sale of the Crittenden Circuit Court, rendered at the June term of

BETTER DAYS FOR RURAL SCHOOLS

Future Is Hopeful If Citizens of Kentucky Take Advantage of Opportunity Presented By New Law

When Mrs. Geo. C. Weldon was asked for a statement concerning the new school laws, which will become operative next November in the election of a County Board of Education, she said:

With the prospect before me of Kentucky's brilliant educational future, it is impossible to resist the pleasing temptation of urging that every man and woman, whether they be parent, teacher or citizen, add their interest, their energy and their support to the Cause of Education. May our glorious State not hold back, but by its every act add impetus through increasing interest in our school system.

HELP WIPE OUT ILLITERACY

General E. H. Woods, who heads the Farm Bureau movement in Kentucky, urges the farmers to interest themselves in the selection of strong Boards of education in the following:

All honor and much credit is due to the Kentucky School Administration Law. This wise and timely law leaves it with the rural population of this state to carry out its intention. One of the great objects of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation is to work to the end that the country boy and girl in Kentucky can have just as good schools as have the city and town boy and girl. This I regard as one of the most important steps in order to stop the flow of population from farm to the town. Another is to help wipe out illiteracy in this state.

Aristotle was once asked how much educated men were superior to the uneducated men. His reply was, "As much as the living are to the dead."

We want our state to have a living population. The Farm Bureau Federation intends to keep clear of political alliances but we are 100 per cent American and stand for the support of all of our government in the protection of all the constitutional and statutory laws.

The provision in the new school law for the election of a County Board of Education in each county seems the best solution of the problem of rural education. Therefore, my appeal is especially to women, whether they have children in school or not. Education through schools being the chief preparation for future citizenship, our duty lies in making them as efficient as possible in our power. To women is left the direction of children's education, in a large degree, so you must exert the recent privilege of suffrage in electing to your County Board of Education good, clean, capable and conscientious men who will use every influence to create and maintain a non-partisan Board.

Since the rural school is the great hope for Kentucky's educational rise, you women and mothers must wield a mighty influence both inside and outside the home, through the helpful and organized work of Parent-Teacher Associations. Every school district finds its Parent-Teacher or Mothers' Club solution to most of its problems, whatever they may be, for it is a combining of the forces of the home and the school for the good of the school and to meet its every need.

Women, familiarize yourselves with the new school law, then form a Parent-Teacher Association in your community, or strengthen the one already formed, for the full enforcement and right interpretation of that law as it is unquestionably the only right meth-

THE CHILD WITH THE HOE

Spaniard Is Wife's Master.

The legal position of a married woman in Spain is today so low that her husband has absolute control over her person and property, as in the middle ages. The wife cannot enter business without her husband's consent. He has the legal right to shut her up in a convent if she does wrong, and it is left to him to decide what constitutes wrong.

Raisins.

The word raisin is generally used to refer to the dried grape. Raisins are usually the product of warm climates and contain from 20 to 30 per cent of sugar. The principal and most valuable class of raisin grapes is the muscatel. The seedless raisins of commerce are largely Sultana grapes. The smallest ones come from the currant grape.
